Three Paths to HBS Alumni Status

Few programs at Harvard Business School (HBS) Executive Education offer a path to alumni status. By participating in PLD, you have the opportunity to earn lifetime HBS alumni status and access to a wealth of benefits aimed at cultivating lifelong learning.

You have five years from the completion of PLD to fulfill alumni status requirements. Qualifying programs include those completed within two years prior to your PLD start date.

Attaining HBS alumni status is contingent upon completing one of the following paths:

PATH 1
Attend PLD Module 5

Picking up where PLD left off, this two-week intensive capstone course is aimed at helping you become an authentic leader who can drive more value in business and in society.

By focusing on three distinct elements—corporate finance, authentic leadership, and negotiation—you’ll gain the insights you need to maximize profitability, make more strategic decisions, and lead with confidence. Furthermore, because this module combines PLD cohorts, you’ll have the opportunity to broaden your personal and professional network.

PATH 2
Complete 10 nights of Executive Education programs

Build on your PLD learning experience by completing an additional 10 nights* of qualifying HBS Executive Education open-enrollment or custom programs. Tailor your experience to meet your goals by choosing from a variety of programs, which include:

- Authentic Leader Development 5 Nights
- Behavioral Economics: Understanding and Shaping Customer and Employee Behavior 5 Nights
- Changing the Game: Negotiation and Competitive Decision-Making 5 Nights
- Disruptive Innovation: Strategies for a Successful Enterprise 5 Nights
- Driving Corporate Performance: Aligning Scorecards and Structure for Strategy Execution 5 Nights
- Finance for Senior Executives 5 Nights

- Managing the Future of Work 3 Nights

*Calculated by the number of nights spent on campus. For example, a 4-day program may require 3 nights on campus.
